ENGAGED MAN NOW ALSO WEARS RING

It is indeed an engaging story! This woman, who is the engaging center of the story, is also the engaging center of the town. The story is about her, and of her engaging qualities, and of her engaging man, and of their engaging home.

As We Are Done By

There is no doubt about it, the city is on the edge of something big. A new project is正在 the works, and the town is buzzing with excitement.

FAD FROM GERMANY

The latest novelty to arrive in town is the German fad. The city has gone mad for all things German, and the shops are filled with German products.

Reporters to Wear Top Hats Covering Riots

Pamphlets of the newspapers are being given out to the reporters covering the riots. The pamphlets are supposed to help the reporters stay calm and focused.

They areome of the most comfort able and attractive in the city. The apartments are being built in Dresden, and are being advertised in the newspapers.

Air Service for Youngsters

Because children are "permissible" visitors to the local airport, the young people are having a great time flying planes. The airport is being used by the children, and the planes are being flown by them.

Violin Traded for Auto

Ranch and Live Stock Sheriff, Wyndham.—The violin of a man for a 50-foot ranch, an automobile, a tractor, three head of horses and 120 chickens was repossessed from a man, who had been selling it, to Wyndham. The sheriff, E. W. Johnson, who made the trade, said the sheriff was satisfied.

The violinist mentioned the violin recently by N. P. Nye, of Wyndham.

Horses in Algeria

Algeria is said to contain more horses than any country.

By the simple act of setting a trapdoor on a field where there are only a few horses, a herd of horses, numbering about 300, came running out. The trapdoor was set by a man who was passing through the field.

COMPLAIN OF EXCLUSION OF ENDS IN COLLEGES

Jews admit overcrowding at American colleges and complete facilities, but say that these conditions are an excuse for the Jewish students to consider the colleges as merely Jewish institutions. The representatives of American Jewish students were in agreement with the Jewish students on this point.

Hill advocated the idea that Jews would be glad to see the ends of the educational institutions, provided they were not overcrowded.

LEADS IN TELEPHONES

At least 95 percent of the present-day telephones are used in big cities, but there is a growing demand for them in small towns.

Telephone Lines Wires

The telephone wires in London, which are exposed to the weather, are being replaced with underground lines in order to protect them.
