The accident was caused by the driver not stopping for the "stoo sign," and that nothing but a broken auto and slight injuries was very fortunate for the occupants.

Mrs. Julian is still in the Covington Hospital quite bruised and restless.

THE PET PARADE FOR .. THE BOYS AND GIRLS

The pet parade which will be held on High Street at 10 A. M. on Thurs-cay, July 22, should be one of the biggest attractions of the day. Every-boy or girl reghtdless of age, should bring their pet what ever it might be, deg. cat, pony, canary bird, need chicken rabbit or any kind of an-ani-mal or bird. The parade will be headed by the Boy's Bard and will of them, The first time I met Jim Corbett, I chocked up and could hard I talk to him. The Big Muddy has a habit of tearing away large parts of South Dakota farm and abuting the stream, during the spring rises, and carrying them downstream, sometimes in twenty-acre chunks. The piling of logs, brush and debris along the bank has not availed to stop the river's depredations, but it has been discovered that the frames of Junked cars, piled one upon another wherever the water is cutting away the bank, settle so firally and are so resistant to the channel stream that they stop the destruction. Several score of abundoned automobiles are serving more effectively than expensive piling.

TRUCK LAW PROTECTS OHIO'S HIGHWAYS AND SAVES MILLIONS

Buckeye State highways are among the best protected in the United States due to the famous Burke Truck isw. The upper picture brings out the depredations of trucks on our highways before the isw was enacted and the lower picture shows conditions today. Former Senator J F. Burke of Elyria, who is a candidate for Lieutemant Governor on the Republican ticket, is the author.

LONE GRAVE MARKED BY WOMAN'S CLUB

Resting Place of "Mystery Belle" Revered.

Belle" Revered.

Lexington, Ky.—Under the auspless of the Woman's club a simple marker has just been erected over what is know as the "lone grave." In Graham Springs City park, at Harredsburg, Ky., 25 miles southwest of here, telling briefly the history of the grave and requesting the public to treat it with respect and reverence. This "lone grave" is one of the interesting historic spots at Harrodsburg, the oldest town in Kentucky, and the tragic story of its occupant has just come to light as a result of the activities of the Woman's club to memorialize the spot.

Years before the Citil war, when Graham Springs, giaen the Sarattoga of the South, was at the height of its fame and popularity as a health and social resort, a beautiful woman with every evidence of wealth and culture came there as a guest.

Belle of Ball; Found Dead.

One day while wandering in the grounds she came upon a spot of such seenle loveliness that she exclaimed that when she died she would wish to be burled there. That night she was the belle of a brilliant ball at the Springs botel and the next morning was found dead in her room.

There were no railroads then, no telegraph or telephones in Kentucky, so the hotel management could not communicate readily with the town she had given as her home on the hotel register, and she was burled in the spot she had designated the day before.

before.

Letters of inquiry to the faraway town she had given as her home brought back the information that no such person had ever-lived there. A fictitious aname and a fictitious address apparently had been given by the beautiful stranger, who had "danced herself to death," so the old-timers said. The identity of the unknown hady is still a mystery.

Sarcophagus Never Marked

The stone sarcophagus in which she was burled wits never narked with a name or date. Years ago the stone pillars fell and some were broken and the flat stone was later raised on a concrete support by order of the city officials.

The box-like tomb is often mistaken by tourists in the park for a seat or a table and has been considerably marred by vandals. So the Woman's club has erected a tamplograry marker, notifying viators to the park that it is 'the last resting place of the cledy are the same and th

Here is the Point!

Measure the value of your paint by the years of service it will give you-plus the appearance and number of square feet it will cover to the gallon-and you will decide to use B P S-the Best Paint Sold-and in the ennd-the lowest in cost.

B P S Paint covers from 350 to 400 square feet, two coats; a cheap paint will cover not to exceed 250 square feet.

B P S wears for years and leaves a surface that can be repainted successfully.

Think it over seriously; figure out the cost per year and the cost per gallon. B P S will be the best investment.
