LARGEST STILL FOUNDED NEAR CINCINNATI

Philip Schaefer Caught in Meshes of State, He Was Disabled.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Matthew, Eats Sweeney and C. E. Green, came over to Covington Friday afternoon

now about 5:30 p.m. and conducted a raid on the home of Philip Schaefer, which is located near the old town along Trott's Creek.

The Schaefer family has been still yet uncovered in this county in an upper room of the Schaefer home in the city of Covington, where the bodies of three girls were found in a room that was occupied, and a rather crude affray, which could produce a product of 15 of the most dangerous character. Besides the still, there were bleachers of numerous bottles, 30 gallons of liquor were found. The amount of liquor was destroyed before it was found, and the only material that was found was extra, which was utilized for the purpose of burning.

Mr. Schaefer was taken to the County Jail, Friday evening, and breakfast was served to him at 7:30 o'clock, Saturday morning, and received a fine of $100. Since he was unable to pay this sum he was returned to jail where he said he didn't know what to do about it, and that his children would be taken from him.

It is claimed that Schaefer owned a lot of money and his family, who must suffer for his folly; but he must also suffer for the crime of the matter, and the officers for doing their duty.

The only way to stop such practices is to hold all stills and stills that are being operated, no matter who the parties may be.

CHICKS THRIVE WITHOUT GRID

The chicks did not need for grit, and the grid was removed.

They were allowed to roam in the garden, and were fed on a diet of a half-tenth meal, to the extent of six months of age.

The chickens are very gry, and it is also due to this, but in addition, the eggs contain a great deal of gry, and the eggs are all laid in the same manner.

Rats Worry Submarine Crew

Men aboard one of the largest of the United States submarines, in the Mediterranean, found they had a battle and dangerous enemy cave at hand when they returned from a South American run. The bees were huge, long-tailed rats. They proved too clever for traps and, multiplying in large numbers threatened to take possession of their quarters and other parts of the craft. Petrol was out of the question because the animals would have secreted themselves in various nooks and crannies of the craft. The only possible solution was to poison the bees with food. This was done and the bees soon disappeared.
