Baker Resigns Elections Clerk

Troy Baker resigns as elections clerk for the city of Troy. Baker, who has held the position for several years, said he was leaving to accept a position in a nearby town. The city council has not yet announced who will replace Baker.

Galen Baker, of Troy and Canastota, was named Saturday afternoon by the American Legion Auxiliary of Canastota as the winner of the district elections for the 15th district. Baker, who had been under consideration for the position, was chosen by a majority of the Auxiliary members. He will now serve as the district elections chairman.

The WANDERERS’ FEATURE

Hay in the Barn

Way back in the days when cattled were popular instead of auto mobiles and automobiles were the forerunners of horseless carriages, the people in the rural areas of Canastota would prepare for the hay season by cutting and baling hay. Now, however, the trend is towards using silage as a feed for cattle.

The hay season begins in the spring when the first flowers bloom and the grass begins to grow. The hay is cut when it is at the best stage for drying, which is usually when it is in the early to mid-stage of growth. The hay is then chopped and baled into large rectangular bales, which are then stacked and stored for use during the winter months.

The hay is cut using a mechanical cutter, which is a piece of farm equipment that is pulled behind a tractor. The cutter has a large, rotating blade that moves back and forth across the field, cutting the grass into small pieces.

The hay is then hauled to a barn or a field where it is stacked in a rectangular pattern. The bales are then protected from rain and other weather conditions to prevent them from spoiling.

The hay is fed to the cattle during the winter months, when there is not enough grass to sustain them. The hay is also used as a feed supplement, especially during the months when there is a shortage of other feed sources.

The hay season is an important part of the rural lifestyle in the Canastota area, and it is a reminder of the importance of agriculture in the area.

The Typewriter’s Feature

The typewriter is an important tool for writers, journalists, and other professionals who need to create written documents. It is a device that allows people to create and edit written content efficiently and accurately. Typewriters have been used for many years and have become an integral part of the writing process.

The typewriter is a mechanical device that has a keyboard and a paper feed system. When a writer types on the keyboard, the letters are printed on the paper in front of the typewriter. The typewriter was invented in the late 1800s and has been used ever since then.

The typewriter is still used today, although it has been replaced by the computer and other electronic devices. However, many writers and journalists still prefer to use the typewriter because it is a reliable and portable device that does not require electricity.

The typewriter is a useful tool for creating and editing written content, and it is still an important part of the writing process.
