LATE NEWS FLASHES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—Government liquor control in Cincinnati has been restored by a supreme court decision. The decision, which is the result of a long and bitter controversy, is a victory for the pro-liquor forces in Ohio. The decision was handed down today by a three-judge panel of the court. The court ruled that the prohibition law is unconstitutional and that the sale of alcoholic beverages should be resumed.

The decision is a setback for state prohibitionists, who have been attempting to halt the sale of alcoholic beverages in Cincinnati for several years. The decision has been hailed as a victory for the pro-liquor forces in Ohio and is expected to set a precedent in other states.

The decision is likely to have an impact on the political landscape of Ohio, with the anti-liquor forces now likely to face a more uphill battle. The decision is also likely to have an impact on the national stage, with prohibitionists now likely to face renewed efforts to restore the sale of alcoholic beverages across the country.

The decision is also likely to have an impact on the economy, with the sale of alcoholic beverages now likely to be resumed in Cincinnati and other cities across Ohio. The decision is likely to be welcomed by businesses, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume, and by consumers, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume.

The decision is also likely to have an impact on the culture, with the sale of alcoholic beverages now likely to be resumed in Cincinnati and other cities across Ohio. The decision is likely to be welcomed by the cultural community, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume, and by the public, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume.

The decision is also likely to have an impact on the health, with the sale of alcoholic beverages now likely to be resumed in Cincinnati and other cities across Ohio. The decision is likely to be welcomed by health professionals, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume, and by the public, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume.

The decision is also likely to have an impact on the politics, with the sale of alcoholic beverages now likely to be resumed in Cincinnati and other cities across Ohio. The decision is likely to be welcomed by politicians, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume, and by the public, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume.

The decision is also likely to have an impact on the environment, with the sale of alcoholic beverages now likely to be resumed in Cincinnati and other cities across Ohio. The decision is likely to be welcomed by environmentalists, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume, and by the public, who have been waiting for the sale of alcoholic beverages to resume.

Berlin, Germany, October 8.—President von Hindenburg today accepted the resignation of General von Schleis, commandant of the Ethnological Institute. The resignation of von Schleis was tendered at a council of war on Sunday morning. In his acceptance, the President said: "I have accepted the resignation of von Schleis, the commandant of the Ethnological Institute, on condition that the department be placed under the supervision of the Ministry of Education." The acceptance was signed by the President and delivered to von Schleis at the Institute. The resignation was accepted by the Minister of Education, Dr. von Schleis, and the appointment of a new commandant will be announced in the near future.
