CHANGE TO BE MADE IN PHILIPPINES

Coast Guards Still Chasing Rum Boot

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The turbulent and as yet uncontrollable情绪 of the government of the Philippines has not been mollified by the recent appointment of a new governor-general, Manuel L. Quezon, to replace the late Judge Miguel Malvar, who had been acting as governor.

The new governor-general, who is a graduate of the University of Michigan and a member of the Philippine bar, has been appointed by President Quezon and is expected to arrive in Manila early next month.

The new governor-general is expected to take immediate steps to improve the administration of the island, which has been in a state of骚动 for several months.

He is expected to work closely with the Philippine congress, which is now in session, and to endeavor to settle the many disputes which have arisen between the government and the people.

The new governor-general is also expected to give special attention to the development of the islands' resources, and to the improvement of the educational system.

A number of new laws are expected to be enacted, including one providing for the establishment of a new university and another providing for the establishment of a new system of public schools.

In addition, the new governor-general is expected to give special attention to the problem of the islands' currency, which is currently in a state of flux.

The new governor-general is expected to be a strong and independent leader, and to work closely with the Philippine congress in order to achieve the objectives of the government.

He is expected to be a popular leader, and to have the support of the majority of the islanders, who are looking forward to a new chapter in the history of the Philippines.

The new governor-general is expected to arrive in Manila early next month, and to take immediate steps to improve the administration of the island.
