EARLY DECISION IS FORECAST ON BUS LINE PLAN

Applications of Three Interests To Puffer the Route to Covington Heard

Decision of the Ohio public utility commission upon applications of 113 Miami Valley interests to operate a bus line from Dayton to Cincinnati service, which was abated recently, was recently decided by the agency. Six of the concerns involved in the case were scheduled for a hearing before the commission.

Purifications of the three interests received the Miami Valley Transportation Corporation, Dayton; Maylo and Mason, Dayton, and E. J. Grooms, Cincinnati, who were opposed by the utilities commission. Rules and regulations, which the agency decided to adopt, were published in the last days of the last week.

Indications point to a license being awarded to one of the three concerns for service according to the Philip transportation as follows:

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

By Charles W. Blevs

Columbus, Ohio, December 7: There is no question discussed more in political circles than that of confirmation of appointments to boards and commissions by Governor Vic Donahue by the Republican senate. For four years they have rejected the names submitted for confirmation, and each time the voices of the state have voted their disapproval on this action by the return of Governor Donahue. Never before has the history of Ohio politics been marked by such a pause.

Every Governor is entitled to certain appointments, but the Republican Senators in the act, by orders from Washington, have rejected, with but one of two exceptions the names of those submitted by the Governor. And this action has only weakened the Republican party in Ohio. The Senate has not only consistently refused to confirm the appointments of Governor Donahue, but have rejected instead of adjourning thereby tying his hands and making appointments impossible.

Governor Vic Donahue is anxious to give Ohioans an administration all his own, with commitments and laws made up of men that he selects. He has indicated the high class men that he will ask to serve, and what action the senate will take is a problem.

Never before was the senate in mind of the man named by the Governor, who is submitting the names as matters of responsibility. But in the past, no name that would have been submitted would have been confirmed. Orders were in the minority and the two previous sessions have followed orders pretty closely. If anybody should ask you:

The general opinion prevails that the coming senate should confirm every appointment made by the Democratic Governor. That it is not intended would be much better politics than has been played. It would place the entire responsibility on the Governor instead of dividing it as it is today. Many boards and commissions are to be filled and if the senate was bold enough to face the bitterness of the Ohio voters Governor Donahue is going to be vested with appointments which would those entire responsibility for the next two years upon his shoulders. And if the senate is not afraid that it will accomplish that much with his own boards and commissions, and show up the present appointments that will approve the names submitted.

Republican members-elect of the House of representatives of eight towards the president of the state senate have decided to hold their councils on next Thursday. Republicans members-elect of the state senate. Among the important questions which will be before the senate council will be the election of a president pro tempore, and the selection and decision on matters of policy, such as confirmation of appointments.

When Col. Thos H. Brown of the state senate was present to discuss the policy of the senate, the members-elect of the state senate, and the selection and decision on matters of policy, such as confirmation of appointments.

When Col. Thos H. Brown, a member of the state senate, was present to discuss the policy of the senate, he made plain that he did not intend to carry on his course of refusing any other orders and laws which were to carry on the Republican party. The Donahue for a place in the White House.

We doubt you will be surprised to hear from me so early, but last year my letter was so late and I suppose you were so busy that you forgot some things. So I will remind you of some:

I would be pleased to get a tool chest, hickory, die, field glasses, electronic train, tinker toys, steel shovel and a gravel truck.

Furniture -
The Pine Tree and in Christmas Honor

The cranking, crowning snow of the earth, as well as the crisp, icy frizz of a temperature some degree below zero, has birthed, no doubt, the novel and cold weather for the Christmas holidays. Their experience was usually quite well served, but not actually so fine. "Icy-frizz" snow all about it.

This building, as did other一心es, featured a lower osr of contrasts, with greens and blues scattered pleasingly to break the stark, dreary Tree.

Silhoutted against the sky, the sky, backed by the background of the green, the pine, the top of the tree, the snowy, the evergreen, the snow

suggested by nature, to make up the picturesque of the Christmas
