FALL AND SINCLAIR FACE NEW TRIAL

Pat McDermott’s Trial Opens at Cantony Today

Washington, Dec. 6.—Another conspiracy trial growing out of the "illegals" investigation resulted in the conviction yesterday of the fifth member of the Cantony ten. The defendant, Edward F. Sinclair, was found guilty of conspiracy with Edward F. Van Dusen and four or other persons for grounding the \"Green Dragon,\" which was seized by the authorities at the dock.

The defendant was tried for conspiracy in connection with the seizure of the \"Green Dragon\", and he was held for trial with Sinclair. The defense rested the case on the ground that the defendants were not guilty of the crime charged.

Covington Pastor Giving Series of Christmas Sermons

Rev. M. C. McKeel is giving a series of Christmas sermons, spoken last night upon "The Wise Men and Another." The sermon was read of the Coming of the wise men from the east to worship the King whose star they had seen. Rev. McKeel said they were unbelievably the representatives of the learned men of the day and that through them seemed today to be a conflict between Christians and men of science, that men great and good men of science had been true worshippers of the Christ and that he was glad to know there was special place and mention given to those who was born at that time who impressed so great a distance that they might bow down with joy at the feet of the Father of the world, and the gifts of gold, incense, and myrrh was accepted as a real expression of their faith.

He spoke of the books "Ben Hur" and "Vandyke's," the "Ute River Wise Man," Mr. McKeel related the story of the Frenchman as portrayed in "Vandyke's," stating the desire to worship and pray to follow the three wise men with the always a disappointment. He found the three wise men, who had started out with the almoner of the desert and a poor man wick to escape the agony. One of the three precious jewels, a sapphire, a red garnet, and a sapphire, was set for the dying one. Once again we find them as they Wholesale to the congregation of the church of the children of Herod. He again takes one of the jewels to bury on the Roman soldier and one of the balances from those who were brought to the temple, to be burned over the last searching for the light. At the end of many months he met in the caring crowds of Palestine a tall girl from his own country who recognizing him as a countryman, took to his help and free from the terrors of the tyrant. The last of the jewels must go and Armstrong finds himself alone. Thirty three years before, he identified the crowds to the crucifixion and there recognized the King and is permitted to worship with others after the resurrection, hearing the words directed to himself. "As you have done unto one of these, ye have done unto me." Rev. McKeel insisted that the sermon on the Mount as recorded in the same book of Matthew was part of the Christian's inheritance and that we should heed what we see.
