SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

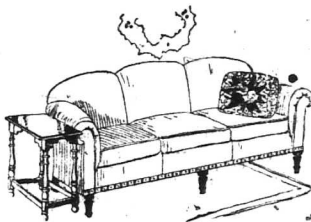

Columbus—Never in all the history of this great Buckeye state has there been so much political talk two years before another election as there is right now. There isn't, as a matter of publicity, a single candidate for any state office two years hence but in fact a half dozen for each and every one. Ohio hasn't the place it occupied a few years ago in National events, and efforts to stage a comeback are being made this very minute. Elaborate in detail and with a heavy artillery necessary to put them in force, yet the plans are being carefully nursed along with some of the big leaguers of the state taking a prominent if not an official hand. Democrats are not so concerned as the Republicans who want to stage a comeback take the Governor's chair with every thing that goes with it, with an eye on national offices almost in the shadow of the White House if in fact not the White House itself. Ohio Republicans to be frank would like to see President Coolidge that he has had enough, so that the race would be open and a couple of announcements could be made. But they have to wait the decision, if it ever comes, which to many is very doubtful. There is an undercurrent or feeling that Coolidge likes his job and will ask another term, which might disrupt some of the plans now being hatched in Ohio. But if he doesn't—watch the smoke of battle, which will be visible from almost every precept in each of the 88 counties.

Announcement made by the Ohio Valley Retail Furniture association, that the 1927 convention and market of the organization which includes dealers in Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana will be held in Columbus. For the past two years the association has held its convention and market in Cincinnati, due to the lack of hotel facilities in Columbus. The dates fixed for the convention and market are March 28 to April. Convention displays, which will include the products of approximately 200 furniture manufacturers, will occupy two entire floors of the Neil House. An attendance of more than 2000 furniture retailers from the four states is expected. The Ohio Valley Retail Furniture Association is the largest territorial unit of the National Retail Furniture Association.

When Princess Cantaxuzane visited Columbus last week she made a visit to the cabin in which her grandfather, General U. S. Grant was born. The cabin is located at the state fair grounds enclosed in glass. Efforts are to be made again when the general assembly convenes to have the cabin returned to its original site at Point Pleasant by residents of Brown and Clermont counties. The Countess expressed her wish that the entire cabin be returned to its original place providing it was given the same care an attention that it received at the state fair grounds. Argument is made that more persons get to see it at the fair grounds than they possibly could at Point Pleasant but against this it is held that locating the cabin where General Grant was born, would make a visit more impressive upon the minds than by being 125 miles away as it is today.

Ohio must provide more room for its criminal population, and while plans for disposal of the present Ohio penitentiary have been under discussion for several years, it develops that there is no intention on the part of the state to dispose of this proposition. The General Assembly will be more than a half million more than the old prison of 150,000 is required to new cell block, and in sanitary condition west cell block. The day has the largest history, and means sleeping space has been must be worked out legislature. Develop London Prison farm is considered, and $240,000

Indians Without Salt
According to the "Handbook of American Indians," not all of the tribes of Indians were accustomed to using salt; whether from difficulty of procuring it, the absence of the habit, a repugnance for the mineral, or for religious reasons, it is not always possible to say. Salt exists in enormous quantities in the United States, and it was not difficult for Indians to obtain it.

No Paper Train Wheels
Train wheels are made of steel and iron. Paper was tried out in the manufacture of passenger car wheels some years ago, but the results were unsatisfactory. Paper has been successfully used for making fiber abrasive wheel and pulley wheels and skate wheels.
