CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The Christmas Pageant at the Christian Church which was given on Sunday evening was "Why the Chimes Rang." It was the story of a boy who was living with a little brother and an uncle in a very poor home. They had lately been orphaned and the spirit of the grandmother prompted the older boy to love the church and the life that it taught.

On Christmas night at the great cathedral wonderful offerings were to be made to the Lord by all classes of people, when the offering was made that should be acceptable to the Lord the great chimes of the cathedral with a gift. Everybody planned to be people of wealth and fame and the king himself was expected to appear with a gift. Everybody planned to be present at the great meeting but at the last moment there appeared in the home of the orphaned children an old woman who was seemingly suffering with cold and hunger and the older of the boys refused to leave her to go to the great meeting but stayed and ministered to her.

While she was eating the humble repast that he gave to her they were miraculously at the temple where the offerings were being made. The great choir appeared singing a beautiful anthem and then in turn came the rich beautiful society woman with her pearls, the man of great wealth with his riches, the soldier with his sword the seer with his productions, the musician with his instrument, and the king offered his crown but all were refused. The old woman urged the boy to offer his pennies which he finally did and when the priest offered them at the altar the chimes rang and the angel appeared and blessed the boy, saying, "Inasmuch as you did it to one of the least of these ye have done it unto me."

The whole pageant was enacted in a very effective way. The costuming was especially beautiful. Roy Cool played the part of the Priest, Jack Berryhill was the Uncle of the poor boys and Holger, whose gift was accepted by Helen Hofmeyer, Mrs. Gertrude Livingston was the old woman and Bobbie Livingston the other boy. Francis Shaffer presided at the organ and Thelma Johnston, who directed the play was the angel. The Pastor, Dr. Jacob Kendall, Arthur Maier, Mrs. Alice Simes, Jack Kendall, Lois Mimich and David and Rufus Kendall all played the parts of those who brought the offerings. The music was rendered by the regular choir under the direction of Miss Velma Cool.

The lesson of the whole pageant was most impressive and was highly appreciated by a large audience.

Kansas City, Mo.—Acting on the theory that a degenerate had gained entrance to the home, police today were searching for the slayer of Mrs. Germaine Troquet Harpin, 28, and her infant son, Robert, whose bodies were found in an unused room late last night.

The slaying of the mother and baby makes three found choked to death in the last two days, the body of Mrs. Bonnie Pace, 28, having been found Monday also in an unfurnished room.

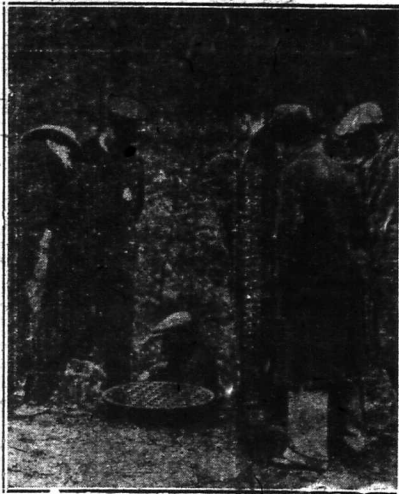

Both Mrs. Harpin and the infant were choked by rags knotted tightly around their necks.

Both murders have occurred at home on the doors of which were "rooms for rent" signs, which gave rise to the police theory that a hoon pretending to be in search of a room had gained entrance to both homes.

Gray, Ga.—The "last legal hanging" in Georgia, scheduled here Friday, may not take place.

Governor Walker commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Jarrett Benford, one of two men convicted of slaying an eighty year old woman in Jones county.

Seek Physician's Wife

Washington, D. C., police searched sewers near the Houck home on a chance of finding the body of Mrs. Gladys Houck, missing wife of Dr. Knute H. Houck, prominent physician. The doctor, who disappeared the same time his wife did, was found wandering in a dazed condition at Carmel, N. Y. (International Newsrel.)

PLEASANT HILL TO HAVE A REAL THEATRICAL SHOW

The California Street Company plays will show in Pleasant Hill Thursday night of this week in the township hall.

This company is considered one of the best companies on the road and numbers nine people, presenting regular stage plays with vanderbille under the acts.

"The Brat" will be the play this Thursday. The manager of the company states that Pleasant Hill will be placed on his circuit with a high class play each week if the crowd Thursday makes it look worth while. —so it is up to the lovers of good clean plays to turn out and pack the hall, so that we can have something worth while without going miles to see it. The prices will be 15c, 25c, and 35c.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS MEET

A regular semi-monthly meeting of the American Legion was held last night in the Legion headquarters above the Stillwater Valley Bank with 20 percent of the 1927 paid-up members in attendance.

After the business of the evening was finished, comrades Giffin and Johnston served all present with a very generous and delicious feed of hot meat loaf, sandwiches, potato salad, pie and coffee.

There has been something to eat for five successive meetings and the prospects for many more.

KENDALL FAMILY REUNION

The family dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Kendall was one of the happy events of Christmas day. Around the dinner table at two o'clock were gathered relatives from many different states who had come together for this special occasion.

The dining room was lighted with candles decorated with holly and red ribbon, with candle place cards indicated where each one was to sit and a candle stand was lighted at each place. The dinner was served by the grand children and its preparation was overseen by Mrs. Emma Waymore who had assisted many times before in the homes of the grandparents.

After the meal old and young went coasting until time for the program at six o'clock. This was given by the grandchildren and was certainly enjoyed by the grownups.

First Christmas carols were sung by every one then the program was given in charge of Jane Kendall.

Rufus Kendall gave a Christmas wish, David dressed as Santa Claus, sang the bells.

The Christmas lesson from the Bible was read by Frederick Kendall, then a vocal solo by Mary Ellen accompanied by Miss Jane at the piano. Elizabeth, Celso and Worley the violin.

Other selections by the trio followed by Interpretive Dance by Jane Kendall French carols by Doris Gump. The night after Christmas by Ruth Kendall, A Christmas story and Christmas of other lands by Margaret Miksell, Richard Kendall read a letter of appreciation written by the grand children. This was followed by a reading by Jane Kendall telling of the strange things which happened when April played Ktis Kingle.

The program ended with every one playing blind man buff.

In the evening an open house was extended to all the friends of the young people and every one went home hoping that another Christmas day could be spent together next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDaniels of Piquette, spent Christmas day with Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer.

What Editors Say

TELEPHONE FAILINGS

"The telephone operator is often blamed by patrons," says an Illinois editor, "but the operator is an expert and is more apt to speak correctly than the individual who grabs up the instrument excitedly and jabbers instead of speaking softly, distinctly, and carefully. The eleventh commandment might be, 'remember thine own shortcomings.'"

There is more truth than poetry in this testimonial to the long-suffering exchange girl. Despite her occasional lapses from perfection, she is, indeed, usually an "expert" in her line. Patrons could benefit greatly by observing and imitating her careful enunciation, her directness, her brevity and attention to business and her ability to get the most effective use out of the telephone instrument. Many an operator can communicate over a wire more clearly in a whisper than some subscribers do by shouting.

When all's said, however, the most admirable characteristic of the typical telephone operator is her patience with a careless, impatient and exasperating public. When she is treated as intelligently and courteously as she treats subscribers, there is seldom any trouble. —Marietta Daily Times.

Doings at Columbus

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

Columbus, O.—City boys and girls have as great a desire to live on the farm as country boys and girls do to live in the city, according to letters being received by Vernon M. Riegel, State Director of Education.

Director Riegel recently received 4 free scholarships to the National Farm School at Doylestown Pa. to be awarded to city boys and girls in Ohio if any could be found, who desired to make agriculture their life work.

Letters were sent to the city Supr. and the scholarships were given publicity in the newspapers. The result has been scores of letters to Director Riegel from city boys and girls asking that they be considered for the "Results of Director Riegel's can was show conclusively that there is a field in agriculture for city boys and girls," declared Ben Gray, of New York director of the National Farm School Expansion Project, which is seeking financial aid in Ohio. The Farm School at present has 200 students, 12 from Ohio, and its directors and sponsors to expand the capacity to 800. They are seeking to raise $5,000,000, Ohio's quota is $500,000.

The National Farm School takes city boys and girls between the age of 16 and 21, and without charge gives them an intensive three-year agricultural training and secondary school education at Doylestown, followed by two years of practical work. The students are then assisted by the school to finance the purchase of their own farms, thus making them independent at an early age.

The Expansion Project had its origin at a conference last spring in New York City which was attended by the representatives of President Coolidge, of forty state governors and the mayors of scores of cities over the country.

Ohio impetus was given to the movement at a conference sponsored by Governor Donahey, held in Columbus in November, Public leaders, and leading educators and agriculturists all over the country have endorsed the work of the school.

A STRANGE WILL

An unusual will is that of Charles Miller of Toronto, who left $800,000 worth of brewery shares to Methodist ministers of the Toronto conference, while $25,000 in shares in a Jockey club are bequeathed to two lawyers and Rev. Benjamin Spence of the Prohibition Union, one-third to each.

Should any of the beneficiaries of this peculiar will refuse to accept their bequests, these sums are to remain in the estate. At the end of nine years all property left in the estate is to be sold and the proceeds given to the parents of the largest number of children born in the province of Ontario within the nine years. Considerable interest is aroused over whether the preachers will accept this brewery and race-track money. It may cause them some searchings of conscience to decide.

Living up to his name, Jay Walker of North Cambridge, Mass., aged 4, got in front of a moving automobile and has his nose badly scratched.

The first official act of Sheriff Oren Coleman of Williamson county, Ill., was to arrest his predecessor, George Galligan, on an old murder charge.

Mrs. Sarah Shea is suing a Fall River, Mass. bakery for damages, alleging that she broke her teeth while eating a piece of its cake.

Hot Off The Wire

(L. N. S. Dispatch)

Atlanta, Ga.—A reward of $1,000 was offered by Governor Clifford Walker today for the arrest and conviction and members of the masked mob who flogged Wilbur Brown, an attorney at Louisville, Ga. Christmas eve. The whipping of Brown followed the acquittal of alleged members of another mob who were accused of the murder of Millie Wilson in an attack on his home last July. Brown assisted in the prosecution.

Gainsville—George Burton, negro wood-chopper was taken from the city jail at Waldo, a small town near here.

FOR SALE
(Small Farms)

One farm of eight acres, all black land, right along paved road, with 7 room house, good barn. One mile from market; good barn, and out-buildings, good well and cistern. This is a fine home for some one, and the price is right.

Ten acres with good buildings and close to paved road; close to good market; also 20 acres of land right along paved road,—all good black land. This would make a good poultry farm. Priced right.

I have a farm of 40 acres, well improved and close to town. One 50 acre farm; this is well improved and drained; no waste land on it; close to market.

Also have Covington property of all kinds; have a nice home in West Covington and the price on this property is right; 7-room house, electric lights; good barn. I have some modern homes in Covington.

sometime during the night, shot and killed by unknown persons and his body left lying alongside a road, where passing motorists discovered it this morning.

The negro was brought to jail in an intoxicated condition, after threatening a Mrs. John Jones with a revolver according to the sheriff's report.

Harlan, Ky.—The little hill settlement of Banner Fork, near here, today was burying its dead and settling down to normal once again.

A gun battle, in which all three participants "shot it out" to the death and which literally exterminated an family there, "was being investigated by county authorities today.

Roy Smith and Henry Smith, his father, and Daniel Jones were the participants and victims in the shooting affray, the cause of which was not determined.

According to reports, Jones and the younger Smith opened fire first and the father seeing his son mortally wounded, came to the rescue, felled Jones with a volley of shots and then fell, fatally wounded, beside his son's body.

Washington, Dec. 23.—The treasury decided today to take the poison out of denatured alcohol.

Guillard P. Winston, under-secretary, announced that the department chemists have been instructed to prepare formulas for industrial alcohol that will make it "tasty and palatable but not poisonous." This action was taken as result of numerous deaths over the country, and drinking poisoned alcohol.

St. Charles, O.—The negro manufacturer in the history of Belmont county was paid here today by Attorney Ralph B. Cohen, Steubenville. Cohen went on a $3,000 bond to effect release of Sam Horn, his client, indicted on a charge of making moon shine at Brookside.

Without Country

Mme. Carmelia Cafarelli, a native of Cleveland, O., married Androl Chiostrugi, an Italian attorney, losing her American citizenship. He became naturalized, but that did not restore her citizenship, and the Italian Government did not recognize her as a subject. She encountered difficulty in re-entering America after a trip abroad.
