MEXICAN RELIGIOUS ROW DEEMED SERIOUS

Federal Government Sends Out Cavalry-Rebel Force In Operating Force

Mexico City—The Mexican Government has sent strong forces in pursuit of Archbishop Jimenez and his rebel followers in Jalisco, hoping to put down this revolt before the Archbishop succeeds in fusing the rebels bands now operating through northern and central Mexico and brings about a religious war of major proportions.

Two thousand men, many of them of the middle classes and many other experienced indian fighters are said to be marching under the banners of the Archbishop, who is reported by prisoners to be personally directing his forces.

The situation in Jalisco is regarded now as most serious, and it is reported that the losses in the raising of the siege of Tepetitlan totalled 120.

Cavalry has been sent out by the federal government as the men of Jalisco, who are in revolt, are excellent cavalrymen.

Rebel forces are operating in force about Atotonilco.

The action of Archbishop Jimenez in taking the field is the most serious blow the government has suffered since the rebellion under the banners of "Vive Christ Our King" started. It is admitted that with the strong personality of the Archbishop aligned on the side of those in open rebellion, the rebels may gain in strength, despite the continued counsel of the Catholic Episcopate to eschew actual fighting.

Archbishop Jimenez has been in hiding for two months fearing that he might be expelled from the country. Although he was not the head of the Catholic church in Mexico, many looked to him for leadership, as the most forceful prelate in the country. He is comparatively young and has a militant record; and he was forced to leave Mexico and reside for two years in San Antonio because of his activities against Carranza. Ever since the outbreak of the religious controversy he has urged a policy of energetic resistance to the Calles regulations.

Washington—The American government was confronted today with the alternative of compelling President Adolfo Diaz to make peace in Nicaragua or of setting the U. S. Marines down for a prolonged military occupation of the little republic.

Diaz' rejection of the mediation proposed by President Jimenez of Costa Rica, which secretary of state Kellogg said this government "welcomed," rather put the proposition squarely up to the state department, and there was keen speculation in Latin-American quarters here today over the next step in the situation.

It is accepted that Diaz could be "persuaded" by the department to make peace. His continuance in the presidential palace at Managua is dependent upon the support of the department and the presence of marines, who have neutralized most of the fighting zones, and disarmed many of his enemies. Diaz is particularly amenable to the state department's wishes.

The department, however, is admittedly in a somewhat delicate position because of the Mexican irritant. While desirous of restoring peace and stability in Nicaragua, the department is nevertheless determined to have in Managua a regime that leans to the government rather than to Mexico.

The expectation prevails here that a compromise proposal will appear in a few days for mediation by a central American commission of jurists, and meanwhile the marines will remain in control of the situation.

LIVES OF FOREIGNERS IN CHINA PRECARIOUS

Foreign Missionaries Suffering Attack From Several Old Provinces

Peking—Life for foreigners in central and southern China is daily becoming more precarious owing to the excesses committed by the Nationalist forces in control there.

Attacks against foreign missionaries were reported today from seven provinces, involving British and American nationals.

For the apparent purpose of intimidation of the British diplomats now negotiating at Hankow with the Nationalists over the British concession there, seized by the Chinese recently, the Nationalists have announced the observance of two "Anti-British weeks" dating from the fifteenth. Although there have been three meetings between Eugene Chen, Nationalist Foreign Minister, and the British diplomats, little has been accomplished. In some quarters it is believed the British are delaying action in the hope that the Nationalists will receive a military set-back.

The Nationalists demands include recognition of their government and the withdrawal of all British war vessels from Chinese inland waters while in return the are offering indemnity for the Hankow and Kinkiang concessions.

EVER READY CLASS

Mrs. G. Y. Hall received the Ever Ready Class, Friday evening, Mrs. H. A. Drees, assisting hostess.

Twelve members of the class enjoyed the evening together, a part of the time spent in arranging the future work of the class, a social hour enjoyed afterward.

A luncheon of fruit salad sandwiches and coffee was served during the evening.

Columbus, Ohio—Sunday baseball enthusiasts in Ohio, both amateur and professional, were lining up for battle here today to oppose the "Celtic sports" bill introduced in the state senate by senator Joseph N. Ackerman.

Joseph Carr, president of the Columbus American Association baseball team, said today that regulation and state control of sports would not meet with much opposition in the state but that the clause pertaining to Sunday sports if passed would sound the knell of baseball in Ohio.

"Such bills bob up almost at every session," said Carr, "some parts are good but to wipe out Sunday sports would be a step towards Puritan days. Only two states prohibit Sunday baseball and public opinion and demand will soon bring them to rewrite this law."

Gov. Donahay, while silent regarding the Ackerman bill, today expressed himself in favor of a law regulating sports without committing himself upon the reference to Sunday sports.

UNIQUE TREASURE FOUND
BY ARCHAEOLOGISTS
Bible, Written in Long Hand, 600
Years Ago, Found in Mayo
Ruins

New York—A Bible, believed to have been written possibly more than six centuries ago has been found in the Mayo ruins uncovered some time ago in the jungles of the territory of Quintano Roo, Mexico, where archaeological investigations now are being carried on by Sir Howard Jameson, of Glasgow, Scotland, according to Singclair Crane, who has just returned to New York from the scene of the latest historical find.

Mr. Crane said that it is the belief of the archaeologists, who uncovered
the latest Mayo ruins in Quintano Roo, that the Bible, which was written in long hand on parchment paper was deposited there by a branch of the old Franciscan fathers, some of whom are said to have ventured into that region about a century after the landing in Mexico of Fernando Cortez, the Spanish conqueror.

"Excavation thus far made of what is believed to have been the seat of the Mayan Empire in the state of Yucatan, and which work is being carried on by the Carnegie Institute at Washington," said Mr. Crane, "lends the archaeologists in charge of the work to the conclusions that the Empire was at its height between 300 and 300 A. D."
These conclusions have been confirmed by the finding of several enormous stone monuments bearing Mayan hieroglyphics dating back to the early centuries in question.

DANDRUFF ON COATES

Columbus, O. If a beaver trimmed coat gets "dandruff" and becomes baldheaded—then what? That's the nut municipal judges here have to crack.

Annie L. Knouff is suing a High street clothing house for $129.00. Le cause, she alleges, the coat began to shed soon after she purchased it in January, 1925, and developed a dandruff like scale.

She returned the coat to the store and so far, she alleges has not had the purchase price returned.

MODERN FLAPPERISM IS REVOLT AGAINST POSITION OF WOMEN AS THE "WEAKER SEX"

Columbia, Mo.—(Modern flapperism is a revolt against the traditional position of women as dependents and as the so-called "weaker sex." This is the way Professor Myron W. Watkins of the University of Missouri has summarized the sociological status of the modern girl. He strongly defends the college flapper contending that the transition from the "old fashioned girl" to the 1927 coed was only a natural course of events after the disappearance of the days of knight hood.

"Women no longer desire to be the subject of assaults of man," Prof. Watkins observes, "but want to live their own lives, thinking for themselves, entering professions and having careers."

"Their position is not new to the world. Before the advent of knight hood and gallantry in the Middle Ages Women did most of the work. Their position in the household was much the same as that of the man today. The hardest work the men did was hunting and fishing and sitting around smoking pipes.

"The old-fashioned view that women should be treated as dependents is merely a hangover from the days of knight hood. We are gradually departing farther from it and will continue to do so until women have assumed a status similar to that which they held before the Middle Ages."

And now scientists tell us that man descended from fish. It isn't so hard to believe at that, for there are a lot of poor fish around.

The number of girls sitting around without partners at the dances is a suggestion that the man power of the nation is declining.

Better Lives for Farmers' Wives Is 20th Century Slogan

CHICAGO — Thirty-eight per cent of the farm women of America had abandoned the delivery of the old fashioned wash tub at the close of 1926, according to W. C. Coleman, president of the Coleman Lamp and Stove company of Wichita, Kansas in an address here.

"Traditional drudgery of the farm wife is being banished by the growing use of labor saving devices," said Mr. Coleman, "the modern farm woman has abandoned the wash tub and is turning to the use of the modern washing machine."

"Use of washing machines and better lighting has had much to do with making life worth living for the up-to-date farm women. Few farms have electricity but darkness is banished from farm homes all over the country by gasoline-pressure lamps of which over 3,000,000 are in use in America. The old coal and wood cook ranges have been supplanted by the gasoline-pressure cooker and Air Gas stoves, while more than 32 per cent of the nation's farm homes have running water."

Board of Underwriters, can be dropped to the floor or turned upside down while burning, without danger. Old fashioned kerosene are giving place to modern self-heating gasoline-pressure lamps. More than 60 per cent of the farm families have musical instruments. Twenty per cent of the farm houses have hardwood floors and 55 per cent boast of kitchen etc. "All this makes for lighter and better farm life. Already there has appeared a new crop of boys and girls to stay on the farm and make it a better place."

Columbus—Ohio farmers won a battle from the railroads of the state today, when the State Utilities Commission ordered a new schedule of reduced rates on fertilizer.

The commission upheld claims of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation representing 35,000 organized farmers, that fertiliz rates in carload lots between intrastate points, were excessively high. A new schedule, ranging from six cents per 100 lbs. for minimum five miles haul, up to 27 cents on hauls o 500 to 520 miles. The order becomes effective in 120 days, and affects thousands of Ohio farmers.
