Illusion Often Lost

by Personal Contact

The best authors should be read, not known. Even if a poet has written an epic, one hour's association with him may destroy the most idolatrous reader's illusion of him.

Your favorite humorist may turn out to be an ordinary person, dull in the use of the spoken word. Or what you believe to be the greatest living novelist may prove to be a little peevish man whose false teeth do not fit, made intolerant by nervous indigestion or egotism.

In any case, says Corvus Harris in the Saturday Evening Post, some writer whom you have admired for his high notes in the purpling shadows of a great poem is almost sure to give you to some meanly critical views of man quite contrary to the noble sentiments he bugled in that martial epic, because he was in a divine mood when he wrote it, and the thing merely interprets his mood, not his normal mind, which may be a mean little mind.

Early Altars Ablaze

With Human Sacrifices

Throughout the ages men have made human sacrifices whenever they were under adversity and felt that the gods were aghast. H. G. Wells paints a graphic picture of a scene that may have occurred in the dawn of a prehistoric day about the vast stone altars on the Wiltshire uplands at Stonehenge, in England—the Druid priests with horribly painted masks, the air of festivity among the people who have come wearing their very best skin garments for the occasion and the helpless victims gazing toward the distant smoking altars upon which they are to die.

As time went on, the practice of human sacrifice became more elaborate. The reasons and occasions for human sacrifice were codified. The most civilized races decided that as entire communities might be cleansed of an epidemic or saved from other calamity by this barbarous means.

ANCIENT TOMB NEAR ALGIERS AWES ARABSAntedates Christianity by at Least Two Centuries.

Paris—A mysterious tomb regarded with awe by the lowly Arabs of the region, stands on the crest of a lofty hill, about fifty miles from Algiers.
It is known as Le Tombeau de la Chretienne, the tomb of the Christian woman, although French scholars regard it, without proof, as a Punic structure antedating the Christian era by at least two centuries.

No little is actually known of this monument that small wonder is occasioned by the fantastic legend handed down about it in truly Oriental style throughout the countryside. The Arabs themselves call it Khour Er-Roumia, which means European or Christian tomb, the use of the plural suggesting that they regarded it as a multiple tomb. Even, their legend throws little light on the origin of the strange edifice.

The mystery that hangs about it is deepened by current Arab legends, which imply the fixed belief that much undiscovered treasure lies buried inside.

At the top of the hill which rises a thousand feet above the Mediterranean, this extraordinary relic of antiquity rears itself an additional 100 feet. The structure is a circular mass of dressed stone, at least 300 feet in diameter.

Sculptured Columns.

Sixty elegant columns, sculptured in relief and resembling the Ionic in style, decorate the lower circumfer-ence of the tomb, a drum-shaped edifice, originally surmounted by a lofty cone of rock. At the four cardinal points of the compass huge false portals are sculptured. A design on each of them, resembling a great cross, is responsible for the present French name of the ruin.

In an effort to discover the treasure two small tunnels were long ago dug through the center. On one side near the summit is a considerable depression made by Baba Mohammed Ben Berthum, pasha of Algiers, in 1776, when he used cannon to demolish the tomb. The French government has now put a stop to the work of treasure hunters and other vandals, and some years ago restored one of the principal facades.

Entrance is possible through a low and very narrow passage which earlier excavations revealed in the subterranean. The use of the false portals, that facing the east. This entrance leads to a fairly spacious vaulted chamber whose solid stone masoned walls had apparently never borne decorations. But the right-hand wall has small relief sculptures of a lion and horses.

Directly underneath these basreliefs another short, constricted passage, which has to be traversed on hands and knees, leads to seven ascending steps and then into a spacious and beautifully vaulted gallery built of large blocks of neatly dressed stone. This gallery, spiral in form, is more than 400 feet long. At the end a third passage leads to a large oval chamber and then into a larger one.
This was supposed, until recently, to be the exact center of the monument, but it is now known that it is somewhat off center, whether through accident or design has not been determined.

Place for Cinerary Urns.

The purpose of the chambers is also in doubt. Nothing has been found in them or in the spiral gallery. It may be supposed that the first was a vestibule to the second, in which three niches are sunk in the bare walls. It is a further guess that the niches were intended to hold cinerary urns. It is possible that these supposed mortuary chambers are blind, like the four portals, and that the real vaults are deep in the foundations, approached by vertical shafts with horizontal passages at the bottom.

This manner of entombing the dead, sitting up and displaying the shafts, after the manner of ancient Egypt, corresponds with the Phoenician and Punic practice of antiquity. If this supposition be true, the tomb still guards its secret, and the local Arab tradition of the multiple tomb is not without meaning.

The builder, whoever he may have been, chose well the site of his last resting place. To the north, a thousand feet below, stretches the waters of the Mediterranean; to the south, long green slopes rise into the fruitful valley of the Mithda. Along the southern horizon the cedar bearing Atlas mountains rear their purple wall, from which clear streams descend to make the valley prosperous.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

Columbus, Ohio.—Automobiles of the State are unalterably opposed to any further increase in gasoline taxing, and will oppose such a measure to the limit, according to Chas. C.

Janes, secretary of the Ohio State Automobile Association. Mr. Janes has received telegrams from each of the 88 counties of the State, and never were automobile clubs, as well as individual owners more united on an issue than they are at the present time in opposition to any increase in the gasoline tax.

One cent a gallon increase in gasoline taxes means $6,000,000 more annually from the pockets of the automobile owners of Ohio. Mr. Janes said adding "At the present time auto owners must pay three different taxes. First that for license tags each year, then the personal tax, and the gasoline tax of two cents per gallon." Why if they add to the gasoline tax it will cost many motorists one cent per mile tax for every mile they drive.

Approximately $13,000,000 is being collected annually for gasoline tax, while revenue from the sale of automobile license tags reached $9,825,000. That is almost $23,000,000 collected annually from Ohio automobile owners, while the personal tax will average almost $10.00 per machine which means $15,000,000 more. This does not count the loss from operation due to depreciation, liability, theft, and other insurance which most automobile owners carry.

Automobile has been the source of pleasure as well as business for millions of Ohio residents. If the General Assembly adds to the gasoline tax it is going to prove a prohibitive measure for many who now operate machines going to and from work cannot afford the expense.

A little man with a Big Voice One that reaches to the ears of every Republican State Senator—came down from Cleveland the other day and protested against any of the Harry L. Davis appointees to positions with salaries attached, being removed. And before he had left the city word was given out officially that the Senator would not confirm Republican appointees of Governor Vic Donahey. Then the Governor, who always fights in the open, came right back and said something like this "All right then. Keep the men on who are there." While the public, innocent lookers on, were of the opinion that when they elected Governor Donahey for a third term they thought they spoke loud enough for the senators to hear. But it seems different and unless something under seen occurs a few more appointments to positions with a salary attached—get that salary attached—will be confirmed by the present senate. Not a single Harry Davis appointee has yet been disturbed, and it doesn't seem they will be as long as the little man with a big voice from Cleveland has his say. And then when the session is over it wouldn't be a bit surprising to see them recess again. The senate has been in continuous session now for more than four years and it may be two more before they adjourn, if in fact they ever do. Then some wonder why Ohio keeps on electing Vic Donahey Governor. One of the Republican leaders put in the "ring" said after the action was taken "That means a fourth term for Donahey." And the Governor, along with a substantial majority of Ohio voters, think he is entitled to commission appointments the same as every other Governor in the History of the State.

Ohio ministers of all denominations want the present General Assembly to pass a law which will prohibit the sale of some of the "true love and confession" magazines stopped in Ohio. For some time there has been a gradual sweeping aside of the better class of magazines for some of those which should be denied the use of the mails. Action of the Ministers has met with a ready response and the passing of a law which will do away with some of the cheap trash would not be surprising.

And now Ohio grape growers want a law passed which will permit the manufacture of wine with a kick to it. That is they don't want the industry to become one of which any one may engage, but they would let every man rule over his own home in making wine. The subject gets the grape growers a lot of publicity, but it won't get them much else. Ohio is a dry state, having been voted so by a very substantial majority, and is going to remain so. It wouldn't be if everybody could make their own wine.

MARINES EMBARK FOR CHINA

Washington, Feb. 1.—Increased pessimism about the Chinese Crisis was noted in every official quarter here today.

The problem was again threshed over at great length at this morning's cabinet meeting, and while the details discussed were not divulged, it was reported that an immediate and wholesale evacuation of the troubled far eastern republic by Americans was seriously considered. Such a course would be a complete about-face for the government in view of President Coolidge's recent suggestion that United States nationals in China should not be asked to abandon their property and lawful interests.

The report found credence, however, in a dispatch from Admiral C. C. Williams commander of the Asiatic fleet who stated that Americans were being advised to evacuate all coastal cities. There are 104 Americans supposed to be scattered about the interior where Anti-foreign sentiment is strongest. Their situation today is not known.

But no matter what course the government may adopt as the evacuation, or as to the protection of property, almost half of the American holdings in China are being abandoned as fast as their owners can arrange for transportation to the seacoast. This confirmation of the reported action of the Shanghai consular body's order denying foreign troops the right to occupy the international settlement was still unobtainable today. It is known, however, that the consular body has a definite voice in the municipal government of Shanghai and may have exercised this voice in issuing the order.

Reasons given here for the consular body's order were of a speculative character but it is believed the Shanghai authorities fear their city may be left open to immediate attack by the Cantonese if the troop movement continues. The Chinese defender of the city, Sun Chuan-Fang, has already voiced his displeasure at the coming of the increased military forces.

Sailing orders may be issued to the 4th regiment of marines before the end of this week it was indicated at the navy department today. The regiment is being recruited up to its strength, and should it be sent to China it would add 2,000 fighting men to America's forces there.

The U. S. Transport Chaumont now at San Francisco, was ordered to proceed immediately to San Diego and take aboard the marines. The Chaumont will sail for the far east on Thursday, by way of Honolulu. The orders read that the Chaumont and her complement of 1,200 marines are to join the Asiatic squadron. This was taken to mean that no effort will be made to land the forces in China unless an emergency arises.

Three light swift cruisers the Cincinnati, Richmond and Marblehead are now proceeding to Honolulu and should arrive there about the time the Chaumont makes port.

If the Chinese situation becomes more critical, it was pointed out, the marines could be transferred to the swift cruisers at Honolulu for the run to China.

The American government is preparing for "any emergency" in China. This announcement was made at the White House today after a cabinet meeting and after orders had been issued for the dispatch of 1,200 U. S. marines to Asiatic station.

President Coolidge feels, it was stated, that the half a century of warfare now on duty in Chinese waters and the additional marines ordered today from San Diego, this government now has sufficient force on hand in the far east to afford protection to American nationals in whatever emergency arises.

Portsmouth, O.—One alleged moonshiner is dead here today and another is being sought in the hills of regions of upper Twin Creek, 20 miles west of here, following a pitched battle between four federal and state prohibition raiders a deputy sheriff, and the dead man and his companion late Monday.

The dead man has been identified as Dick Cooper, 22, a resident of the section where the men exchanged shots. Identity of his companion has not been divulged.

Egg yolk is unusually rich in iron. It is very valuable as a food for anemic children.

"Sharpen the tops of the posts," came the cool reply.

Many Bills Before State Legislature

(I. N. S. Dispatch)

Columbus, O., Feb. 1.—Provision for a new distribution of the state gasoline tax funds is contained in a bill by Sen. L. G. Collier, Cuyahoga county, pending in the Ohio senate today.

The Collier bill would decree that 75 per cent shall go to the state highway fund for use in constructing and maintaining highways 15 percent to the counties and 10 percent to municipalities, all on the basis of motor vehicle population.

The present law provides that 45 percent shall go to the state highway fund for road maintenance, purposes only. 25 per cent divided equally among the 88 counties of the state and 30 percent to the municipalities on the basis of motor vehicle population.

Life imprisonment for persons convicted of participating in holdups, or attempted holdups, is provided for in a bill introduced by Rep. T. E. Williams Mercer county.

With a view to reducing the cost of school books to Ohio pupils, Rep. D. T. Hiser, Highland county offered a bill providing for repeal of the state law authorizing purchase of school books by boards of education.

Other measures pending in the state legislature today include: in the senate:

By Sen. J. E. Roberts Youngstown, providing for imprisoning persons convicted of firing a dwelling from two to 20 years in the penitentiary and authorizing imprisonment from one to two years of persons found guilty of attempted arson.

By Sen. L. M. Marshall, Cuyahoga county, seeking to prohibit money lenders from charging more than 8 percent for loans under $300.

By Sen. Roberts making Armistice day a legal holiday.

In the House:

By Rep. R. M. Hughes, Fayette county, defining main thoroughfares on the state highway system and providing for traffic regulations.

By Rep. Harry Bell Scott county, prohibiting consideration of the depreciation funds of public utilities by the state utilities commission when fixing the value of properties for rate-making purposes.

PAUL J. BARNABY

Paul J. Barnaby, well-known entertainer, presents an original, purposeful program of music, art and drama. Mr. Barnaby's program is unusual because of its variety. It is especially unique in that the greater part of the numbers presented are written by Mr. Barnaby himself. Character sketches in quick-change, make-up, pantomime, musical novelties, chalk pictures, comedy cartoons and dramatic scenes are some of the interesting features of this widely varied program.

Mr. Barnaby recently made a highly successful Chautauqua tour. Here is what the Daily Democrat of Urbana, Ohio, had to say of his appearance in that city:

"In arranging his program Paul J. Barnaby has builded along entirely different lines from the average Chautauqua attraction, until his entertainment is justly entitled to the phrase that has been so aptly applied to it—the program that is truly different. The big test was filled Sunday afternoon for the program, and everyone went away with a smile, thoroughly satisfied. The numbers were so clean, refreshing and uplifting. Mr. Barnaby's act on the big crayon board was again demonstrated to the audience in the evening, to the delight of the audience which burst into applause when he started to adjust his seat."

News Flashes

Anderson, Ky.—Ghosts! will they figure in the trial of pretty Frances Delmar Yates, widow and mother of 19 summers, and Edward Powell, grizzled farmer of 50-old winters, on trial for the murder of Frances' husband, Elmer Yates, last November?

That question was uppermost in the minds of hundreds of spectators as they started filing into the courtroom here today, eager to witness the proceedings in the most uncanny murder trial in the history of the blue grass state.

For yesterday every one of the 12 jurors chosen for duty in the case was asked:

"Do you believe in ghosts or spirits?"

"What is your opinion of possibilities of communication with the dead?" was another frequent question.

And these questions were asked, it was learned, because Edward Erwin, chief State's witness, who was originally quoted by investigators as saying that his conscience prompted him to tell what he saw, admitted to state authorities that his mother's spirit really demanded that he help clear the case.

A defense motion for a continuance despite the fact that a jury has been chosen, was to be ruled upon this morning.

Yates' charred remains were found last November in the ashes of a log cabin not far from the Yates home.

A coroner's jury, of which Erwin was a member, absolved both the present defendants of all blame in the affair.

The case was recorded as an "unsolved mystery."

Then, one day, Erwin stepped forward and told that he had seen Powell at the Yates home, and that he had heard a shot.

Sometime later, he declared, he saw Mrs. Yates and Powell driving towards the log cabin and alleged that they had a "bundle" with them.

He declared that the spirit of his mother prompted him to tell all after he had been a party to the exonerating of the two.

Mrs. Yates apparently unworried by the charge against her, entered the court room today with her 17 month old baby, seemingly not caring whether the trial was continued.

Crowds that could not jam into the court room, braved the chilly air outside and hundreds gathered on the spacious lawn in the hope of hearing more about the ghosts.

Green oysters are perfectly wholesome. The greenish color is due to little green plants the oysters eat. Tomatoes are rich in all three vitamins.
