LATE NEWS FLASHES

(L. M. S. Dispatch)

London.—Ninety-one lives have been lost in a blizzard in Nigata prefecture, according to a Central News dispatch from Tokio.

Bangor, Me.—State and city investigations were in progress today to determine the origin of a $1,000,000 fire which swept four buildings burning fifty stores in the retail district.

New Lexington, O.—Jesse Woodruff, 38, Clifford Woodruff, 16, and a third man a neighbor were in a serious condition today at their home near Roosevelt, following the explosion of an acetylene gas tank in the Woodruff home. Jesse Woodruff may lose his sight as a result of his injuries.

Union City, O.—Funeral services for Miss Alma Evans, 31, are to be held Tuesday, her body was found suspended in her room Sunday. The worry over an automobile accident at New Palestine, a year ago, when her automobile permanently injured a child is thought to have caused the act.

Dayton, O., Feb. 14.—Private detectives and police today were scouring Ohio and Indiana in search of an $80,000 pearl necklace, reported stolen by Mrs. Edward Hines, wife of a millionaire lumberman at Chicago. The necklace, according to Mrs. Hines, disappeared from her overnight bag, two weeks ago while she was a passenger on a sleeper en route from Chicago to visit her daughter here.

Cincinnati.—A series of mysterious detonations which sounded like severe explosions, that baffled police, emanated from a motor which swept across the sky about 1:30 this morning.

Hundreds of calls were received by police and firemen concerning the blasts, and the "terrific" explosion was unexplained until several persons called police and declared they had witnessed the phenomena.

Dayton.—The body of Mother Mary Regina 71, Sister of Mercy, today was enroute to Cincinnati following her death here Sunday after an automobile accident at Brandt, near here.

Three others riding with Sister Regina from London to Hamilton were injured.

The accident occurred when the auto driven by Kamm, skidded on the slippery pavement on a curve and swerved down an embankment.

Peabody Mass, Feb. 14.—Blowing himself up with a charge of dynamite, that shook the earth for miles around and shattered scores of windows, William H. Vanderbilt, 60, an explosive expert committed suicide here today.

The terrific blast shook nearby homes and police and fire headquarters were deluged with calls from frightened persons.

Meerane, Saxony.—Marie Draxdorf, 28, maid in the household of the local butcher, was overcome with joy today, so she celebrated St. Valentine's Day by several hours of happy sobbing.

Marie has just been informed that an uncle, the late Mr. Scheffelhauer, a real estate dealer of Milwaukee, has left her a fortune of $5,000,000.

Refusing to count her chickens before they are hatched, Marie announced she would continue to work as a maid until the first payment has been made on the legacy and then she will marry her fiancé, a bricklayer.

New York, Feb. 14.—Churchmen throughout the country today mourned the death of the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, one of the leading modernists in the Protestant Episcopal church. The Rev. Grant died Sunday in the northern Westchester hospital at Mt. Kisco, N. Y., from complications following an operation for appendicitis.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in St. Matthews church, Bedford Village, N. Y., the body will be taken to Boston, where the Rev. Grant was born sixty-six years ago for burial in Forest Hill cemetery.

Dr. Grant had a remarkable career. In 1893 he came to New York City as rector of the Staid and Orthodox Church of The Ascension, a constituency of wealth and culture, where his radical and unconventional ideas involved him in a series of controversies: with Bishop Manning and other prominent churchmen.

Dr. Grant's engagement to Mrs. Rita De Acosta Lidig, a divorcee, together with his pleas for more liberal divorce laws, created a storm of controversy within the church.

The engagement was broken and Dr. Grant resigned his rectorship. His health soon began to decline very rapidly.

Dr. Grant repudiated the doctrine of the Virgin birth, declaring that the church "would be better off without a creed." He also expressed doubts concerning the divinity of Christ.

CONCERNING MEASLES

From a practical standpoint measles is most emphatically not a preventable disease. It might be possible to keep a child living in the country in complete isolation until he becomes an old man and avoid measles, but this is not to be recommended. We may avoid measles as children only to contract it as adults, when we can less afford to be shut in. In spite of our trouble and pains to avoid infection of measles all of us have the disease ultimately. Measles comes in cycles and attacks the ones who haven't had the disease—then self limits its epidemic awaiting another cycle.

Private research workers and the research laboratories of large biological houses are constantly at work endeavoring to develop a serum that will give lasting immunity against measles. Not until this serum has been perfected and not until the public will accept the serum after perfection will measles be preventable. It has been known for several years that blood serum, taken from a person who has recently had measles, if given to another person, will produce immunity against measles for a short period. It is recommended to exposed persons who are invalids, or very young children, or to tuberculous, undernourished children who are apt to contract pneumonia after an attack of measles.

as a cause of death in children. Measles itself in an uncomplicated form is not dangerous. It is the complications and the sequelae that are to be feared and for the most part these can be avoided.

1. Injury to the eyes can be lessened by protecting the eyes from light which is best done by the use of dark glasses, which permit the room to be well lighted and sun instead of dark and gloomy. School children should not read long and steadily in order to make up lessons missed during illness, from measles.

2. Measles predisposes to pneumonia and to fatal pneumonia. The child should be under the doctor's supervision at once. He should be kept in bed from the time measles is diagnosed until safely convalescent. Persons who might carry colds, influenza or pneumonia to the child should be excluded. Pneumonia is to be particularly feared in the very young, the invalid and the elderly person.

3. The frequency of ear complications and subsequent mastoid trouble can be lessened if the nose and throat are kept clear. Have the ear drums examined if an ear ache or persistent fever develops. The early lancing of an inflamed ear drum may prevent a chronic discharging ear, acute mastoid trouble or deafness.

4. Do not let the fever of quarantine deprive your child of a physician's care.

The Miami County Board of Health has carried out the State's regulation requiring the placarding of measles, on those cases which have been reported within the quarantine period. The placard serves as a courtesy to others, warning them that measles exists in the particular house so placarded, but the placard does not prevent the spread of measles for the following reasons:

1. Only approximately 30 per cent of the cases of measles are reported or found. Hence only 30 per cent could be placarded.

2. Of the 30 per cent of known cases at least 20 per cent are discovered or reported after the quarantine period is over.

3. Even if a placard were placed on all cases as soon as the diagnosis is made it would be no protection since measles is chiefly contagious before the rash appears. The "coming down" period is the main contagious period and exposes others before diagnosis is made.

Mothers should be able to recognize the early symptoms of measles—as red watery eyes, a stopped nose, sneezing and a harsh irritating cough. Such children should be kept home from school until a diagnosis can be made. One case in school gives it nearly 100 per cent to all others who are not protected by a previous attack.

P. J. Crawford,

JOHN SCHRAM IN ACCIDENT

Mr. John Schram in turning his car off of Piqua Ave. on Grant Street was struck by another machine driven by Mr. Fink of Bradford. Mr. Fink was driving rapidly north striking the Schram machine and turning it directly around on Piqua Ave. Mr. Fink went on a little distance before getting his car stopped but came back along the road.

The car belonging to Mr. Schram was broken so that the Warner service truck was called to remove it from the road.

Mr. Schram was badly shaken up especially complaining of stiffness about the shoulders and arms, but otherwise was unhurt.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. Fink who occupied the other car were hurt. Mr. and Mrs. Glen Thompson took Mr. Schram to his home, and word from there this morning is that Mr. Schram will be all right and is thankful he is unhurt.

News Flashes

(J. H. S. Dingsbach)

New York—Dr. Casper S. Pendola, Brooklyn physician, is dead, his throat severed, his alleged slayer was in prison today charged with the killing, and six young children were fatherless, all dug to a parent's ignorance of the nature of antitoxin and his failure to understand that the doctor had done his best for a dying boy.

Joseph Caruso, six years old, died yesterday of diphtheria, a few hours after Dr. Pendola, who had been called too late to save the child's life, he administered antitoxin as a last hope. In 1914 antitoxin after the child's death the doctor made his second call. Frank Caruso, Brooklyn plasterer, father of Joseph, is alleged to have accused Dr. Pendola of responsibility for the child's death and then killed the doctor by cutting his throat with a butcher knife.

The body of the doctor fell within a few feet of the couch on which the body of the dead child lay.

Caruso fled but was arrested a few hours later at the home of a brother.

Dr. Pendola, 27 years old, was married and had one child. He was graduated from Fordham university, and originally came from Scranton, Pa.

Cleveland—Herbert Brown Ames, financial director of the League of Nations, today explains "Geneva's contribution to the economic restoration of Europe," opening a three day institute on foreign affairs.

London—Eight persons were killed and at least fifteen were injured today when two passenger trains collided head-on at Hull during the dense fog which has blanketed all England for four days.

Cleveland—Three persons were dead here today, and more than a score recovering from injuries, the results of over Sunday automobile accidents in Cuyahoga county. The sleet and snow made driving very dangerous.
