DEATH IS VICTOR

"DEAD" MAN DIES Man Was Kept Alive By Artificial Respiration for 186 Hours, But Death Came Last Night

By Gene Hoffman Evanston, Ill.—Fifty-seven tight lipped men were back on the job at the Illinois Public Service Company today—the tragedy in their hearts written on every face. Alford whom each had given his full time and energy since last Sunday morning in an effort to save his life, will sit among them no more. The tense human drama closed with death the victim.

Prick, who had come to be known as the "living dead man", died at St. Francis Hospital last night at 10:10 o'clock, after his 187 fellow workers had kept him alive 186 hours by pressing the walls of his chest to give him the breath of life.

Death came quietly. Shortly before the end, the brave boy—he was only 22—looked up at his father and mother and smiled. A faint smile that seemed to say "farewell." He was too weak to talk. A moment later he lapsed into a coma and did not regain consciousness.

But tragic as was his death, even more tragic was the grief of his friends—that crew of loyal men who had labored day and night, in teams of two, and in 15 minute relays, in the hope that life would win. Many of the men, unshamed, broke down and wept. The two who were on duty when Dr. H. H. Conley pronounced the patient dead, refused to quit the shift, hoping against hope that they could revive the spark of life.

Several hours before his death, he rallied and was able to speak a few words to members of his family. He used the breath that his friends forced in and out of his wasted lungs to whisper words of good cheer to those he loved.

"Don't worry, Mop," he said to his Mother. "I've got a fighting chance." His father said as soon as he got well they would have a party for him.

"Shall we invite Miss Martin, the nurse?" asked his father, trying to control his voice.

"Sure thing," said Prick cheerfully. Those were his last words. Prick had been in ill health most of his life, it was learned. Several years ago he went to Colorado and lived in the mountains, but believing he had regained his health, he returned to his home. Until forced to give up his studies on account of his health he was a student at Northwestern University.

Physicians hoped that if the patient could be kept alive long enough the paralysis would lift and normal work of the lungs be resumed.

Hour after hour the brave "comrade crew" worked, hoping that their efforts would restore their friend to health. Even the pessimistic view of the specialists who watched the case with interest, could not discourage them.

Prick's life was in their hands. Medical science had done its best and failed. But they would pull him through. That was the spirit of the crew, and thus their grief may be understood.

Physicians, who could do nothing but check on the patient's condition and direct the efforts of the "breathing crew" felt all along that young Prick was doomed. What few records of Prick's paralysis cases they could find argued against a favorable prognosis.

A lot of the fellows are ordering their Easter Suits now—they get better selection by coming in early—Kinneys.

The Groejean Trio

POPULAR NOVELTY TRIO.—The Groejean Marimba-Xylophone Trio is a popular novelty musical company featuring on its widely varied program the music of the marimba-xylophone. This melodious instrument unites the best qualities of the marimba and the xylophone. The marimba has been in use for centuries among the Indian tribes of Central America and among the natives of South Africa. The xylophone is a well known favorite with American audiences. The marimba-xylophone achieves a tonal quality of remarkable depth and resonance.

Both solo and ensemble numbers are rendered on this instrument by the members of the Trio, each of whom is an expert marimba-xylophone player. In addition, the company entertainingly presents a program rich in instrumental trios, duets and solos, ranging from the popular to the classical and utilizing a wide variety of instruments.

Miss Floss Groejean, feature artist of the company, is a well-known impersonative entertainer. She wins her audiences with her gay and sunny smile and her wholesome enjoyment of the humorous things of life. Riley poems, as interpreted by her, are always very popular.

In addition to her character sketches, Miss Groejean is a clever banjoist, saxophone artist and pianist. She also gives notable ventriloquistic numbers.

Harry L. Jensen is a popular Lyceum entertainer and a valued member of this company. His saxophone numbers are especially pleasing.

Completing the ensemble of the company is Miss Armina Wilson who, in addition to her proficiency on the marimba-xylophone, contributes notably to the program with her playing of the clarinet and piano.

Making for Victory

The American workman who strikes ten blows with his hammer whilst the foreign workman only strikes one, is as really vanquishing that foreigner as if the blows were aimed at and told on his person. —Emerson.

Meat Industry By-Products

More than 80 kinds of drugs are by-products of the meat industry. Rennet, best known as an essential for curdling milk in cheese-making, is furnished by this industry. Other by-products are leather, fish lines, strings for tennis rackets, glue, buttons, glycerin, gelatin, candies, soap, beef extract, wool, lice, hairpins, combs, perfumes and oleoargarine.

Song of the Cricket

The cricket is perhaps the most famous of all insect musicians. It has certainly won renown, figuring as Fabre says "among the limited but glorious number of classic insects." It had ancient admirers; it has also found modern ones. Fabre wrote of it as though he loved it, and its song is repeatedly heard in Thoreau's journals.

On Building

He that alters an old house is dead as a trapezoid to the original, and is confined to the fancy of the first builder. Such a man were unwise to pluck down good old building, to erect, perchance, worse new. But those that raise a new house from the ground are blameworthy if they make it hideous, seeing to their method and construction are both at a rate. —Thomas Fuller (1642)

"Speed Ball"

There are two games played under the name of speed ball. One is played in Maryland, and another in Michigan. Speed ball, as played in Michigan, originated with D. Mitchell, in charge of intramural sports at the University of Michigan. Speed ball in Maryland originated with the Playground Athletic league as a result of suggestions from Harry P. Clarke, game expert of Winnetka, Ill.

A Study

Vacillating, fickle, highly emotional, swayed by effect rather than by reason, ignorant, dissatisfied, angry. Occasionally a factor of no small importance in public affairs. Thoroughly unreliable, cunning, gullible. Dangerous when aroused. As a rule brutal, treacherous, bitter. Wholly helpless without a guiding hand. Elastic. BEN F. STEINLE HURT IN BAD FALL RECENTLY

Friends here will be glad to learn that Ben F. Steinle, formerly of Pleasant Hill, who was injured in a bad fall at his home in the Queen City. The following item from a community newspaper in Cincinnati tells the incident:

"Mr. Ben F. Steinle, druggist at the Hewitt Pharmacy is at the Jewish Hospital, due to a bad fall that he had on Tuesday morning, February 21st. Mr. Steinle had just left his home to go to his place of business when the accident happened. The slipper condition of the sidewalks was very bad and before Mr. Steinle was aware of it he fell and could not arise. It was at least 10 minutes before any one noted the accident. He was taken to the hospital at once. The last report received is that he is doing as well as can be expected. His leg was broken above the ankle by the fall.

The Royal Arch Masons are giving a Banquet this evening in the Masonic Hall, Special. The Ladies of the Lutheran Church will serve the banquet. The dinner has been planned for a social gathering.

New York—Two freighters collided in the dense fog off Robins reef in the lower bay today. First reports did not say whether anyone was injured or not. The ships were said to be the Saca City and the El Sol.

After the collision the El Sol disappeared into the fog, she was listed heavily to the port and showed a large gash in her port bow.

Columbus, O.—H. H. Scott, Troy, superintendent of the state banking department today was preparing to leave his position and assume his new duties as a Vice President of the Bankers' Trust Company, Toledo, a newly organized institution. Superintendent Scott submitted his resignation to Governor Vic Donahey effective March 15.

Reluctantly accepting Scott's resignation, the governor announced that E. H. Blair Brown county will serve as acting superintendent, temporarily in charge of the state banking department.

Blair, for some years, has been an examiner in the State Banking Department.

Salisbury, Pa.—Nine persons were burned to death when fire of under mined origin destroyed the home of Clarence March, in Tusquehanna, near here today.

The dead: Mr and Mrs Clarence March and their five children; Mrs Harry Montgomery and one child.

Only one occupant of the home, a frame structure, escaped with his life. He was Harry Montgomery, whose wife and child perished in the flames. Montgomery leaped from a window.

DEATH IS VICTOR "DEAD" MAN DIES

Man Was Kept Alive by Artificial Respiration for 186 Hours, But Death Came Last Night

By Gene Hoffman. Evanston, Ill.—Fifty-seven tight lipped men were back on the job at the Illinois Public Service Company today—the tragedy in their hearts written on every face. Alford whom each had given his full time and energy since last Sunday morning in an effort to save his life, will sit among them no more. The tense human drama closed with death the victor.

Frick, who had come to be known as the "living dead man", died at St. Francis Hospital last night at 10:10 o'clock, after his 57 fellow workers had kept him alive 186 hours by pressing the walls of his chest to give him the breath of life.

Death came quietly. Shortly before the end, the brave boy—he was only 22—looked up at his father and mother and smiled. "A faint smile that seemed to say 'farewell.' He was too weak to talk." A moment later he leaped into a coma and did not regain consciousness.

But tragic as was his death, even more tragic was the grief of his friends—the crew of loyal men who had labored day and night, in teams of two, and in 15 minute relays, in the hope that life would win. Many of the men, unshamed, broke down and wept. The two who were on duty when Dr. H. H. Conley pronounced the patient dead, refused to quit the task, hoping against hope that they could revive the spark of life.

Several hours before his death, he rallied and was able to speak a few words to members of his family. He used the breath that his friends forced in and out of his wasted lungs to whisper words of good cheer to those he loved.

"Don't worry, Mom," he said to his Mother. "I've got a fighting chance." His father said as soon as he got what they would have a party for him.

"Shall we invite Miss Martin, the nurse?" asked his father, trying to control his voice.

"Sure thing," said Frick cheerfully. Those were his last words.

Frick had been in ill health most of his life, it was learned. Several years ago he went to Colorado and lived in the mountains, but believing he had regained his health, he returned to his home. Until forced to give up his studies on account of his health he was a student at Northwestern University.

Physicians hoped that if the patient could be kept alive long enough the paralysis would lift and normal work of the lungs be resumed. Hour after hour the brave "comrade crew" worked, hoping that their efforts would restore their friend to health. Even the pessimistic view of the specialists who watched the case with interest, could not discourage them. Frick's life was in their hands and they would not let it slip.

Physicians, who could do nothing but check on the patient's condition and direct the efforts of the "breathing crew" felt all along that young Frick was doomed. What few records of Landry's paralysis cases they could find argued against a favorable prognosis.

Columbus—Not all books of the Ohio State University library, one of the most complete of its kind in the United States, are permitted to be read by the University Students. In a secluded section of the library, in a "cage" kept under lock and key, is a group of books dealing with sex, love and human philosophy that have been declared "obscene literature, and unfit for the college man and woman. The only key to the "cage" which is generally known among the employees as "purgatory" is in possession of Miss Maude D. Jeffrey reference librarian. Under her supervision books of the obscene type are reviewed when recommended as being unfit for Ohio State students they are placed in the guarded enclosure.

The general purpose, it is said, of segregating the suggestive volumes into the "purgatory" is to prevent so called "prudent" individuals from reading them. But not only are the students prevented from delving into their contents, but the members of the faculty are often refused the privilege. Special permission to enter the "cage" has been given a few instructors and professors in the departments of medicine and psychology.

Not always are books placed on the closed section of their entrance to the library. Investigation of a book is made when it seems to be getting uncommonly popular with the students.

The collection of book of this nature started several years ago. At first the books were kept on the regular shelves, but not permitted to be removed.

Owing to the large number of the student clerks, who were in ignorance of the policy of suppression, the books were soon removed to the "purgatory."

Most prominent of the suppressed books at the university include: A Young Girl's Diary; Laws of Sex, by Hooper; Peculiarities and Behavior; Disguises of Love; Sex and Dreams, by Stiekel; Ulysses, by Joyce; Sex and Sense, by Van Tassel; Suggestion and Auto-Suggestion, by Bouloin; and Psychoanalysis, by Pfeister. The "Genius" as a novel by Theodore Dreiser, at one time suppressed from publication in New York State is on the free list.

The town of Painesville is celebrating a "Stay at Home" week. There's an idea so radical that its positively revolutionary.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

(L. H. S. Dispatch)

Columbus—A class of approximately 160, of whom 90 percent are Ohioans, will be graduated here on March 18 at the winter convocation at Ohio State University. Prof. Joseph Villiers Denney, veteran head of the English department, will give the principal address. Eight of the 11 colleges of the university will be represented in the class. Seven Chinese are among the prospective graduates. The class consists of 124 men and 36 women. Two students are candidates for the degree of doctor of philosophy, the highest awarded. Subject to final action by the faculty, the March class includes Herbert Warren Ullery of Covington, who is a candidate for a degree from the College of Agriculture.

Hall March 29 until the auspices of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Only twice before in American musical history have so many pianos been played at one time on the concert stage. Most of the eight men and eight women who will participate in this unusual program are artist teachers or artists students of the Cincinnati Conservatory.

The feature of the concert will be a performance of the famous Chop Stick Variations, written by Russ. The program will end with a mass performance of composers' military March.

Dayton—The 1600 or more veterans at the National Military Home and other veterans residing there and elsewhere will be deprived of their pension checks in May and June according to announcements to adopt the deficiency bill. Many widows of the soldiers will also be similarly affected. It is not believed there is any way out of difficulty for the veterans although President Coolidge and pension bureau heads have been endeavoring to find relief in some form.

 The general public is invited to all the services. A special feature of the evening service is the congregational singing.

The Christian Church

Omer S. Thomas, Pastor.
 The Sunday School attendance last Sunday was very materially increased and yet it is not up to normal. We believe that the measles epidemic among the children has now subsided enough that there will be little danger. Next Sunday we are hoping for another such increase in the attendance as that of last Sunday. We hope for an average attendance of three hundred by Easter. Sunday School at nine o'clock.
 Morning worship at ten-thirty and evening at seven o'clock.
 Our new stereopticon was very satisfactory for the evening service last Sunday. We plan to use these Bible studies from time to time.

The Brethren Church

H. C. Martin, Pastor
 Everybody was well pleased with the Sunday School and church attendance last Sunday, having broken the record for this year at all services. Of course there is room for more, so please come next Sunday at 9:15.
 The pastor's message for the morning will be "Walking with Jesus."
 In the evening we will consider the matter of "Decisions". A man's value to his family and the world depends largely upon the decisions he makes. The subject may give you a new vision of life.
 The Tuesday evening service will be held at the church next week. We are looking for a larger attendance at that time.

WILL CARVE GIANTIC FIGURES ON MT. RUSHMORE

Denver.—When the snow melts off the rugged ravines and canyons of the Black Hills of South Dakota next May, Gutzon Borglum, noted American sculptor, and his associates plan to begin the actual work of carving a heroic head of Washington on the granite face of Mt. Rushmore, four miles from Keystone, S. Dakota, in Custer State Park.

For two years since the Stone Mountain Memorial difficulties Borglum has been working on plans for an American Memorial in the Black Hills.

Mount Rushmore exhibits a sheer granite face 350 feet high, visible for miles above the pine covered ridges that give the Hills their characteristic color. On this magnificent escarpment will be carved the heads of Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln, scaled to the proportions of individuals 495 feet in height. In addition a tablet 80 by 20 feet will be incised with a record of the creation, extension and salvation of the republic by these three presidents.

The Rushmore project takes on added interest from the invitation extended President Coolidge to spend the Presidential vacation in the Black Hills. The President promised to take the matter under consideration.

Plans for the Memorial at first met with some opposition but subscription from private sources, the donation of equipment and an awakening national interest, and the work is expected to proceed as planned.

The entire monument will cost approximately $450,000 and will require five years for completion, according to Borglum's report to Ex-governor Carl Grunderson. The completion of a state highway already authorized from Keystone will give access to the site and facilitate the work and immediate construction is being urged on the Highway Commission.

Work already includes the blocking out of the head of Washington in giant smears of white paint, the placing of a winch to support the workmen's cable chairs, the installation of an air compressor to drive the rock drills and construction of log buildings to house the equipment. Everything is ready for the actual work to begin in the Spring.

Borglum has already secured a cabin for himself and his family near the scene of operations, and regardless of the progress of the memorial intends to make his home in the Hills for some time.

Radrnor—After having served for 48 years the Delaware County Protective League, Somerset detective association formed in 1884 has disbanded.

Delaware County Children's Home at Radnor, benefited by the dividend in that $133.74, which was left in the treasury of the association was given to the home.

Out of 75 charter members when the organization was formed their remains eighteen charter members who are living. Since the tractor has replaced the horse to a great degree on the farm the thieves have become almost extinct, leaving the association without a purpose on which to continue its operation.

T. R. Price, newly elected secretary served for one evening in that association, which disbanded the same day that his election went into effect. He replaced the late John Pugh, who was the first secretary. W. L. Williams was the president of the organization during the entire period of existence. Six regular members and one representative of a woman member attended the final session.

Henderson, Ky.—Edward Erwin, the state's main witness in the murder trial of Mrs. Frances Delmarly Yates, and Edward Powell, both charged with the slaying of Frances' husband Elmer Yates, last November, underwent a severe cross-examination at the hands of defense counsel here this afternoon.

Except for court attaches and news papermen, the courtroom was bare of spectators, as the court ordered the room cleared when a general tumult broke out among the spectators over portions of Erwin's testimony.

Handclapping, cheering, and general disorder, causing over an hour delay in the case, was loosed by the spectators when Erwin made a sharp retort to a question directed by defense counsel.

"Testifying as an eye witness to the murder of Mr. Yates, Erwin told of seeing a fight between Powell and the young husband in the rear yard of the Yates home, heard a shot, and saw Yates fall.

Erwin admitted that he told the grand jury which returned the indictments against the 16 year old widow and the 60 year old farmer, that his "mother's ghost" called him (Erwin) to his front door and bided him tell all he saw and heard.

The state was contended that an illicit love affair existed between Mrs. Yates and Powell.

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholy. Now I am the proud mother of a beautiful little daughter, and a true companion and inspiration to my husband. I believe hundreds of other women would like to know the secret of my happiness, and I will gladly reveal it to any married woman who will write me." Mrs. Burton offers her advice entirely without charge. She has nothing to sell. Letters should be addressed to Mrs. Margaret Burton, 5707 Massachusetts, Kansas City, Mo. Correspondence will be strictly confidential.
